ABSTRACT

The present invention provides applet for creating a popup message when a cursor enters a selected outline area. The applet comprises a receiving module for receiving a textual input. Also, the applet is comprised of a popupmap module for defining at least one outline area in the textual input where a descriptive popup message will be displayed. Further, the applet comprises a cursor module for tracking movements of a cursor and displays the descriptive popup message when the cursor enters the at least one outline area.

5

10